Burley's popular trailercycles and ski kit return

EUGENE, Ore. USA - Customers asked for them and Burley said "yes!" 2011 marks the return of three retired products - Kazoo and Piccolo trailercycles and the We! Ski Kit.

The Piccolo (7-speed) and Kazoo (1-speed) trailercycles allow a child to learn to ride while staying safely behind an adult rider during the trip. Both trailercycles adjust easily for growing children and feature an aluminum frame and the patented Burley hitch design for durability, high performance and a solid ride. Both include the Burley Tailwind Rack, which is designed to securely connect the Trailercycle to the lead bicycle or work as a heavy-duty rear bike rack.

We! Ski Kit

The We! Ski Kit transforms a Burley bike trailer into a safe and fun way to bring a child, pet or gear along for a trip through the snow. It's an excellent accessory for cross country skiing, skate skiing, or snow shoeing. The non-wax skis of the kit are custom made by Alpina® and attach with a push-button system to the wheel axle. The adjustable, lightweight tow bars connect to a trailer's side mounts and lead to a padded hip harness.

"Our customers love the Piccolo, Kazoo, and We! Ski Kit and with the overwhelming demand, we decided to bring them all back," said Mike Coughlin, CEO of Burley Design. "The trailercycles let parents teach their children how to ride a bike in a safe and fun way and the ski kit essentially turns a Burley trailer into a safe sled. Kids can join the adults for a winter ride on the mountain."

The Kazoo, Piccolo and We! Ski Kit are now available on the Burley website as well as at select retailers.
